This is a hack to Urja, a free-to-play browser game. It will provide you with unlimited in-game currency and unlimited energy for your account. That way, you can play the game as much as you want without having to wait for it to regenerate. Warning: this hack is not going to work on your second installation of the game - make sure that before running it, you close all other instances of Urja. Urja is a free-to-play fantasy browser game developed by Wargaming.net. It is set in an alternate version of the European Middle Ages where you can collect resources, embark on adventures, or do both at your whim. The game's storyline introduces you to four different factions, each of which have their own goals. The main one is the Black Legion, which has it eyes set on conquering all of Europe to fulfill their ultimate goal - the utter obliteration of all enemy forces across the continent. But what Urja lacks in backstory, it makes up for in gameplay possibilities. While the resource management and building up your city is a time-consuming affair, you can keep yourself busy with optional quests, such as those that involve stealing items from remote locations. That way, you do not have to wait for your resources to regenerate. You can be back at it as soon as the regeneration period is over. The hack makes use of Math.random() function and the principles of Keylogging . Download Urja full crack [hack] File size: 1MB
